W. L. Garrison,

My dear friend

We have read your "Via Quiafuit". It gives us a little hope that you & dear Fannie enjoyed our home so much. We laugh a great deal when thinking what big eyes many will make at the signature. For there are many, no doubt, who can affirm nothing with any confidence in it even with dignity, gravity & plausibility. So it is possible they will explain that he indulges in free free discourse!
Henceforth many will cease to regard me as a man of sense & sharp dignity & of ever-solvent wisdom. It is your printing of the signature that will be responsible for all that I herein suffer.

Dear Mary tell me of your pleasant visit to home & children. I very long to how often the birds' unequalled fidelity?

I hope that she is quite well now.

I hope you found your dear wife still improving in health.

I am writing very brief for David's purpose. I am speaking very frequently.
Last week I went as far as Watlington.
This week I speak in a Morning at Goshen. I travelled last Friday with Greely. It is full of thickets, thence of similar character.

My wife joins me in warm love to your sisters -

With great regard your friend
Elizabeth
